

On Sept. 28, 2013, the second annual Green Apple Day of Service will bring together thousands of students, teachers, parents and community leaders from around the globe to improve our school environments through service projects, education, community events and more! The Green Apple Day of Service enables volunteers to connect to their schools in an entirely new way in support of healthy, high performing schools.

For 2013, the Delaware Valley Green Building Council has set a goal of 100+ total projects completed by schools in our region. Will your school be one of them? Register a project today and show your support for green schools and the fact that where we learn matters.

Students from Abington Junior High School plant over 300 native trees, shrubs, and wildflowers for Green Apple Day of Service 2012.

2012 Projects in DVGBC Region

Last year, the Delaware Valley Green Building Council supported the Green Apple Day of Service effort in the Delaware Valley region. The many projects that took place included cleaning up school grounds, planting a garden, creating signage to remind people to turn off lights or to not leave a faucet running, and so much more!

35 Total Projects

28 Schools

7 Places of Learning

Visit dvgbc.org/green-apple-day-service to learn more about the 2012 projects.

Want to get involved? A Green Apple Day of Service project is a great way to build support and momentum for green efforts in a school. Visit mygreenapple.org to check out project ideas, read last year's highlights, and register your 2013 project! Projects can take place on or around September 28.

Contact Lori Braunstein, Director for Green Schools and Community at lbraunstein@dvgbc.org or 215-399-5793 to learn how you can support a 2013 Green Apple Day of Service project in your school.

